1,350 Cypriots Held To Avert Civil War

NICOSIA (Reuters). — Governor Sir Hugh Foot announced that 1,350 Greek Cypriots and 50 Turks had been arrested throughout the island up to Wednesday "to prevent civil war."

He told a news conference, "I gave orders for the arrest and detention of a large number of Greeks and Turks who are known, or believed to have planned, murder, arson or other violence and intimidation. These arrested orders have been given to save lives and property and to prevent civil war," he said.

"Our aim is to give freedom from fear and an early return to normal life. To get that, and to stop senseless killing, our measures have to be very drastic and very urgent," the Governor added.

Turkish Group Outlawed

Sir Hugh Wednesday proscribed the Turkish underground movement known as the "TMT" for an initial 12-month period.

Security forces have been carrying out arrests since a 48-hour "standstill" in the island began Tuesday. Greek Cypriot sources said at least two councillors of the Echnarchy (Governing body of the Orthodox Church in Cyprus) are among those detained.

Powers to detain without trial, abolished last year, have been reimposed in the most dramatic security measures taken here since terrorism flared up in 1955.

Sir Hugh said that during the past fortnight information had been received that EOKA had been given instructions to increase attacks by Greeks on Turks. "This information has been confirmed beyond doubt by events. There also have been reliable reports that EOKA was on the point of carrying out widespread sabotage and attacks on security forces."

On the Turkish side, threats of more attacks by Turks on Greeks have been made, coupled with published leaflets in terms of violence and incitement against both Greeks and the Government.

Action taken up over the past 26 hours would be followed up with determination by the "arrest of anyone who resorts to violence or by all measures needed to restore order."

Sir Hugh said that since the beginning of last month, 35 persons had been killed in Cyprus, and over 170 wounded.

In Ankara, Dr. Fazil Kutuk, leader of the Turkish Community in Cyprus, said the situation in Cyprus was now worse than ever. "Terrorist activities have turned into a general massacre, and the Government's precautionary measures are not sufficient to prevent these acts of savagery," he added. Dr. Kutuk is in Ankara for consultations with the Turkish Government.

Iraqi Loyalists Said Fighting Junta in North

ISTANBUL. — Reports reaching here from the Syrian-Iraqi frontier area say that Iraqi tribesmen loyal to the late King Faisal have risen against the new regime and are fighting the military forces.

Four railway carriages carrying ammunition had been blown up by the tribesmen, who earlier were surprised by revolutionary forces, the report added, according to Reuters.

Jordan reports state that the chieftains of the Shammar and Harman tribes in North Iraq have announced a march on Baghdad, and have demanded that the bodies of the murdered members of the royal family be handed to them.

The same sources report that in addition to Khairi Nakshabani, one of the three-man junta in Baghdad, and the former Chief of Staff, Gen. Rafik Aref, whose desertion to the northern loyalists was reported on Tuesday, other prominent loyalists include Col. Na'el Ba'ar, Director of the Armoured Division, Brig. Abdul Karim Hattar, Brig. Abdul Karim Hattar, Director of the Baghdad Staff College, and Gen. Adnan Askari, Director of the Army Communications School.

He denied charges which he said had been made by the "old regime" that the Iraq National Movement generally was directed against the West.

West Seen Giving Recognition To New Iraqi Regime Shortly

WASHINGTON (Reuters). — Western recognition of the new Iraqi Government in the near future is regarded in diplomatic quarters here Wednesday as inevitable.

Despite the U.S. denial of any consultations with other Governments, diplomatic informants said the subject was under very active discussion. One point of view is that the U.S., Britain, and France should speedily grant recognition in order to encourage the new Government to maintain its present absence of overt hostility towards the West.

Britain Asks Delay In Flight Ban

Post Diplomatic Correspondent

Britain plans to replace the paratroopers stationed in Jordan with a Guards unit now in Cyprus. It was understood in Jerusalem on Wednesday that the British have asked Israel to delay for several days her request for an end to the current flights over Israel territory.

Israel is not disposed to grant the British request and is seeking an immediate cessation of the airlift.

The British plan to replace troops was apparently made known to the Prime Minister when he received the British Ambassador in Jerusalem on Tuesday afternoon.

It has been pointed out to the British that only one authorization for an overflight has been granted. It applied to one occasion only, and for the transport of a specific number of troops, but without further permission the British airlift continued to cross Israel territory. This had continued in the face of Israeli objections, but in the past 48 hours no planes have been heard by residents of coastal towns in the area across which they had flown last week. It may be assumed that Jordan is now being supplied through Akaba (see below).

Israel's objections stem from two main considerations. For one, the flights indirectly involve this country in a quarrel which it has studiously avoided, and while they concede there is a danger that any attack against them may also be made against Israel.

From another security consideration, Israel objects to the over-flights because she cannot control them. Israel has been given no detailed information about the numbers and types of planes in use and is therefore not in a position to know who is crossing the country, or when.

The only favorable solution to the problem, according to political observers in the capital, is an alternative route skirting Israel.

U.S. to Supply Oil N.E. Sources Lost

WASHINGTON (Reuters). — The Secretary of the Interior, Mr. Fred Seaton, told 16 American oil producers on Wednesday that the urgency of the Middle East situation required a state of readiness under which the U.S. could put into action a plan to supply Europe with oil if the flow from the Middle East was halted.

Mr. Seaton presented the Foreign Petroleum Supply Committee, composed of representatives of the 16 companies, a revised plan of action similar to that operated by the Middle East Emergency Committee which supplied oil to Britain and Europe from the U.S. and Venezuela following the closing of the Suez Canal in 1956.

Whereas the Suez emergency plan dealt only with transport, the present plan will arrange for production as well.

The new emergency committee would be broadened to include representatives of purely domestic oil firms. A full-time Government employee is to serve as its chairman.

Jordan Takes Away Beirut Safafa Radios

Jordan soldiers and police recently confiscated radio sets belonging to Arab villagers in the Jericho area and it is believed that wireless sets belonging to inhabitants in other parts of Jordan territory may also have been impounded.

Israel Arab villagers in Beit Safafa, south of Jerusalem, reported Wednesday that Jordan troops and police were seen a few days ago in that part of the divided village which lies in Jordan territory, taking away radio sets.

This action is understood to have been carried out as a means of preventing Jordanians from being influenced by the vituperative radio campaign against King Hussein and his regime now being conducted by a number of Nasserist stations throughout the Middle East. In addition to Cairo and Damascus, there were a station calling itself Radio Free Jordan, believed to be situated in Syria, began operating on Sunday and has been appealing to the Jordan population to rise against Hussein and overthrow his government.

Lebanon Electing Leader Next Week

BEIRUT. — Government officials on Wednesday agreed to push ahead with electing a new President next Thursday. The Speaker of Parliament accepted the recommendation that Parliament meet on July 31 for the crucial vote on President Chamoun's successor. He telegraphed the 66 deputies, summoning them to Beirut.

The move brought the crisis closer to solution, than at any time since May 11 when the revolt erupted. The Chamber had been due to meet Thursday (today) to elect a new President, but the Speaker Tuesday night postponed the meeting without any explanation.

Marine units guarding Beirut International Airport and the port area were fired at by snipers Tuesday night, and for the first time in three nights returned fire. There were no Marine casualties, neither from the sniping nor from a grenade tossed at Marines guarding the airport.

De Gaulle Against 'Public' Summit

PARIS (UPI). — Gen. Charles de Gaulle would refuse to attend a summit conference on Middle Eastern problems on "neutral ground," such as Geneva.

There is no question about de Gaulle personally heading France's delegation to a high-level meeting if it is held on "neutral" territory.

1,000 State Professionals Strike for Better Grades

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. — The strike of over a thousand Government-employed engineers, architects, chemists and agronomists now enters its second day, although the Histadrut Trade Union Department on Wednesday urged the men to return to work.

The Engineers Union had called the strike in protest against the unilateral rejection by the Civil Service Commission, Mr. D. Rosolio, of the proposals of the Government-sponsored Professional Committee on Engineers' Grading.

Mr. A. Medanes, Secretary of the Union, told the Jerusalem Post that the act was "a breach of faith" and declared that the engineers would not return to work "until full guarantees are given that the promises will be honored."

Employees of the Ministry of Defense have received permission not to strike until Friday so as to arrange for vital work to be continued.

In a public statement shortly after the strike began, Mr. Rosolio declared that the Commission is not prepared to continue negotiations so long as "this wildcat strike continues." He pointed out that the Union had called the strike in violation of the usual procedure in labour disputes between the Government and its employees, without the approval of the Histadrut and without generally accepted.

Lebanon Expels U.A.R. Ambassador

The Lebanese Government on Wednesday night gave the U.A.R. Ambassador, Abdul Hamid Galeb, 72 hours to quit the country, Reuters reports. Galeb was declared persona non grata because of "contacts with opposition leaders."

Indian Recognizes New Government

The Indian Government announced Wednesday night that it had decided to recognize the new Iraqi Government. Reuters reports from New Delhi. Cairo Radio added that Tunisia has recognized the Iraqi regime.

A Government spokesman stated in Beirut that the Lebanon will not accord recognition to the Iraqi Government, and still regards King Hussein as head of the Arab Union of Jordan and Iraq. But Baghdad Radio reported that the Iraqi Embassy staff in Beirut has announced its loyalty to the republican regime.

Mapam Opposes U.K. Airlift

TEL AVIV. — A call to deny Britain the right to continue the airlift over Israel territory "because it infringes Israel sovereignty" was issued by a meeting of the Mapam Political Committee on Wednesday evening.

Other resolutions which were passed unanimously called for Israel's non-identification with any of the parties to the Middle East conflict; neutralization of the whole area, and the cessation of the arms race.

A report on the political and security situation was presented by Mr. Y. Barsial, the Minister of Health.

U.S. Moose Survived Round Trip to Space

CAPE CANAVERAL. — A Thor-Able missile with a mouse in its nose was launched here on Wednesday night on a 3,000-mile flight.

Earlier, scientific sources had reported that the one of the Thor-Able rockets launched from Cape Canaveral on July 8, survived a 3,000 mile ride and became the first living thing to make a round trip to outer space.

The sources said the experiment proved that the cone insulation could withstand the terrific temperatures in re-entry to the atmosphere and constituted "a pretty good step toward the moon."

Amman Radio reported Wednesday that the U.S. tanker Clyde Explorer had arrived at Akaba with 4,500 tons of oil.

Goldmann: Soviet Jewry Will Be Heard in Jewish Councils

GENEVA (INA). — World Jewry will not relent in its determination to bring Soviet Jewry into its councils. This was the tenor of a 2,000-word message brought by Dr. Nahum Goldmann, President of the World Jewish Congress, to the organization's World Executive meeting which opened here Wednesday night.

Dr. Goldmann expressed satisfaction that for the first time in many years, representatives from Hungary and Poland — the latter ones as observers — are participating in the meeting.

He said that as long as the cold war goes on, the W.J.C. must continue efforts to maintain the minimum of contact and unity between the Jewish communities.

This, he added, refers naturally also to the major Jewish community in Europe, the Jews of the Soviet Union. But while it is difficult to convince the Soviet leaders that they should grant the possibility of the Jewish people in their country, efforts to do so will be continued. There is no know-

Bathers Warned Of Bilharzia Danger

A warning to the public, and especially to young people, against bathing in waters under the supervision of the Ministry of Health, because of the danger of bilharzia, has been issued by the Ministry.

Over 80 breeding concentrations of the disease-spreading organisms are known to exist in artificial reservoirs, basins, irrigation ponds and the like, from Metulla to the south of Rehovot. The danger of bilharzia, a disease which has been destroyed by the Ministry at the Rosh Haayin springs before piping the Yarkon river waters to the South.

There have been two outbreaks of bilharzia over the past 10 years — affecting 21 children in 1951 and 100 children in 1953. The danger of bilharzia of the kidneys has disappeared, owing to the considerable sewage in the Yarkon and Ayalon rivers having destroyed the organisms, and the Ministry's present warning refers to the contraction of bilharzia of the urinary tract.

Agreement Between Landlord and Tenant Validated

The Supreme Court allowed an appeal against a decision of the Haifa District Court delivered on March 29, 1957 (in C.C. 266/56).

Mr. Mordechai Yannai is the owner of a five-room flat which he let to Hanoch and Roselle Fuchs in accordance with the provisions of the Landlord and Tenant Ordinance, 1949. The Fuchs family did not hand over the flat to Mr. Yannai until April 15, 1956, in return for which the latter would have to pay him IL2,500, in security for which sum they gave him a promissory note.

When April 15 arrived the Fuchs did not vacate the flat, but continued to occupy it. The Fuchs family did not hand over the flat to Mr. Yannai until April 15, 1956, in return for which the latter would have to pay him IL2,500, in security for which sum they gave him a promissory note.

themselves in order to shorten the proceedings.

In considering the legality of the agreement between the appellant and the respondents, Justice Landau said that it is open to two different interpretations, both equally reasonable, and in the absence of any evidence to the contrary — the respondents having produced no parol evidence to show what was the intention of the parties the court would choose that construction which would save the agreement from invalidation.

Legality of Transfer Fee

There is no disputing the fact, he continued, that the respondents' agreement to vacate the flat in return for IL2,500 from the appellant is perfectly legal and valid. Nor is there any doubt that if the matter of the IL2,500 had been mentioned in clause 7 of the agreement only, then it would have appeared as an attempt on the part of the landlord to get an additional sum of money in exchange for his agreement to the tenants' continued occupation of the flat — and this is illegal.

However, the same IL2,500 is mentioned in clause 10 of the agreement in the form of consideration for the appellant's consent to the respondents' transferring the flat to another — which is perfectly legal.

The question is, therefore, should be given preference in deciding on the validity of the agreement. For, on the one hand, Justice Landau continued, it might be argued that the main intention of the parties was that the respondents should vacate the flat in all circumstances, and for this purpose clause 7, which imposed a kind of penalty, would appear to be the principle clause in the agreement, with clause 10 inserted as a measure of compensation in the event of the respondents' having to pay the appellant the IL2,500, "vacation money" or the respondents should transfer the flat to another and the appellant receive IL2,500 as his share of the key money from the respondent — which would be perfectly legal in accordance with the decision in C.A. 176/50.

In the absence of any evidence as to the parties' real intention, he preferred the second alternative, Justice Landau held, as this validates the agreement between the parties. The notes of the court were therefore given as security for a legal and valid undertaking and could be enforced.

Appeal allowed with IL200 costs of this question, to be paid by the respondents.

Judgment

Justice Landau, who delivered the judgment of the Supreme Court in holding that the District Court decision had been erroneous, pointed out that the matter was referred to a judge in his capacity as a District Court judge and not in his capacity as Chief Executive Officer, and in the former capacity he should have decided on the merits of the case, i.e. on whether the undertaking to pay IL2,500, in security for which the respondents agreed to vacate the flat, was a legal and enforceable one. But instead of returning the case to the District Court for consideration of this question, he continued, the Supreme Court had decided to deal with it.

Ban on Sale Of Tourists Cars Urged

Ministry of Finance representatives on the inter-ministerial committee considering the question of a ban on the sale of cars to tourists in Israel, urged that the country without import licenses have been in prohibition to press for a blanket ban on the sale of cars to tourists to Israel residents.

According to the Ministry of Finance recommendations, local residents would even be forbidden to drive their own cars if the owner is not residing in it. A tourist here would be permitted to drive only if he had a license to drive in the country.

A temporary resident may sell his car to local inhabitants only if he has a license to drive in the country for a period of two years. He would have to apply for a regular import license should he wish to import a new car.
